

Cookie policy

Our website uses cookies to help us distinguish you from other users and to provide you with an enhanced experience when you use our site. By using our site, you agree that we can place these types of cookies on your device.

What are “cookies”?

Cookies are small pieces of data which are stored for you on your computer by your web browser.

The browsers of most computers, smartphones and other web-enabled devices are typically set up to accept cookies. If you wish to change your cookie preferences for this website or any other websites, you can do so using your browser settings. Your browser’s ‘help’ function will show you how to do this. However, please remember that cookies are often used to enable and improve certain functions on our website. If you choose to switch certain cookies off, it could affect how our website works.

The types of cookies we may use

These are divided into four categories:

1. Necessary cookies

These cookies let you move around our websites and use all their options.

2. Performance cookies

These help us to improve the way our website works to give improved performance. They tell us how each page is used, which ones are most commonly viewed and whether any errors are reported.

3. Customisation cookies

These cookies remember basic information that you’ve entered into the site, so next time you visit our website it’s all there for you. We do not store personal information in cookies.

4. Targeting cookies

These cookies help make sure adverts you see on your browser are relevant and useful to you because the cookie has detected what you’re looking for.